

MISSISSIPPI STATE UNIVERSITY™
EXTENSION SERVICE

In addition to an excellent learning experience, this workshop also gives participants the chance to interact with other landowners.

You are encouraged to participate in the formation of a Delta woodlands users association. This organization will promote, develop, and protect Delta hardwood bottomlands and natural resources in Leflore, Sunflower, and Humphreys Counties for the best interest of present and future generations.

This organization will also act as the “Voice of Forestry” in the Mississippi Delta. The membership will conduct public affairs, communication, and educational programs that promote a better understanding of the environment and woodlands management.

Individuals who require special accommodations to participate should contact the Leflore County Extension Office to make their request prior to the program. Contact should be timely to ensure appropriate accommodation.

DESCRIPTION

Timber Market Outlook is an educational program for the average person who owns forestland. The program features up-to-date information to provide a picture of market trends for forest products.

WHERE

Leflore County Extension Office
309 W. Market Street
(across from Courthouse)
Greenwood, MS 38930

WHEN

Thursday, February 16, 2012.
6:00 pm to 7:00 pm.

COST

There is no cost to attend. However, seating is limited so please call the extension office or send in registration to reserve your space.

It is critical that landowners understand how to market their timber so that they can fully realize the maximum financial returns. In this evening's program, Dr. James Henderson, forest economist with Mississippi State University, will discuss current price trends for pine and hardwood timber and related products. In addition, Dr. Henderson will discuss the potential for emerging biofuel markets.

Dr. Henderson draws from a variety of data sources to provide landowners with a general picture of how local timber markets are associated with the national housing market and global economic fluctuations. By attending this program, forest owners will better understand how to tailor their forest management decisions with long-term investment options.
